

national performance programme

Welcome!

New insights into funding relationships

New research from New Philanthropy Capital (NPC) examines reporting relationships between charities and commissioners and discusses what support providers are (and could be) doing to help. They are running two free events to share their findings, where you can:

- Find out how commissioners think funding applications could be improved
- Hear what third sector organisations think about reporting requirements

If you are applying for funding, want to improve your existing funding relationships or are interested in supporting organisations through the process, please email Gustaf Lofgren at glofgren@philanthropycapital.org to express interest, or call 020 7785 6483 for more details.

The briefing events will be held on the afternoons of 17 March in Manchester and 31 March in London, where copies of the report will be available.

Overcoming barriers to performance management

Seb Elsworth, Director of Strategy at Acevo, explores how the Valuing Performance campaign is tackling barriers to performance management. Seb introduces the case for focused investment to deliver valuable returns.

Click here to read the full article.

Conservatives and Payment by Results

Oliver Letwin MP commented on the Conservative Party's thoughts on Payments by Results (PbR) and capacity building.

Click here to read the full story in Civil Society

Two for one on training!

Don't forget, we're training in the South East, North West and East Midlands this February and March.

If you'd like to improve your performance management support skills, book a place and bring a friend – it's 'two for one' on our spring courses at the moment!

www.performancemanagement.org.uk

