Promote Performance

Voice4Change England has created a series of case studies following the journey of five BME third sector infrastructure organisations who took part in their Promote Performance programme. Find out how:

- Derby Millennium Network are delivering one-to-one monitoring and evaluation and strategic planning support to BME groups, and developing a capacity building manual
- Black South West Network helped struggling organisations develop business plans and alternative income generation strategies
- Black Training and Enterprise Group \(BTEG\) helped groups with longer term planning, quality standards and winning tenders
- Imkaan are running a practical monitoring and evaluation training support session for ten refugee community organisations
- MENTER offered tailored advice on planning and monitoring to twelve BME organisations.

Quality training - SPECIAL OFFER!

"I haven't got time for quality, I need to find funding"

Sound familiar? Helping groups see the benefits of implementing a quality system can be challenging. Why should they think about policies and procedures when they don't know if they're going to exist next year?

Quality: supporting groups will help you demonstrate how successful quality systems can ensure your groups consistently provide high quality services enabling them to meet user needs, discover what they are doing well and demonstrate their successes to funders and other stakeholders.

And to celebrate 20 years of CES we're offering a 20% discount to Performance News subscribers on any 'supporting groups' course in June and July 2010.

Case study: centralising monitoring in Leeds

This in-depth case study by The Solution Shedd unpacks how two very different organisations, Voluntary Action-Leeds and Leeds Voice, streamlined their data collection to provide a central database in Leeds.

Read how they developed a monitoring mapping methodology sensitive to both organisations' needs to gauge organisational impact across the region.
